

What: event, artist or venue

Near: town or postcode

detect

Search

Select dates today tomorrow this weekend

Select times afternoon evening late night

Events Places Articles

Music Days out Theatre Kids Comedy Clubs Visual art Dance More

Styling the Nation

A celebration of design, style and creativity

Sat 12-Sun 13 November | 11:00-16:00 | Free

Tweet

G+

0

Share

0

Franciszka Themerson: Lines And Thoughts

Update this event

l'etrangere is delighted to present a solo exhibition of paintings, drawings and calligrammes by Franciszka Themerson - a seminal figure in the Polish pre-war avant-garde. She developed her unique pictorial language during the shifting years of pre- and post-war Europe, having settled in Britain in 1943. Together with her husband, writer, poet and filmmaker, Stefan Themerson, she was involved with experimental film and avant-garde publishing. Her personal domain, however, focused on painting, drawing, theatre sets and costume design. This exhibition brings together Franciszka's three paintings completed in 1972 and a selection of drawings, dated from 1955 to 1986, which demonstrate the breadth of her work. The paintings: Pietons Apocalypse, A Person I Know and Coil Totem, act as anchors in the exhibition, while the drawings demonstrate the variety of motifs recurring throughout her work. The act of drawing and the key role of the line remain a constant throughout her practice. The images are characterised by a fluidity of line, rhythmic composition and the humorous depiction of everyday life. She was instinctively drawn to the contrast of extremes: abstraction and figuration, order and disorder, comedy and tragedy. In an art so alive with storytelling, literary sources, particularly concrete poetry and Dada, played an important role in Franciszka Themerson's works. Often, the titles of her works, both insightful and playful, are quotations from poets and philosophers, whether from the Greeks, Apollinaire or Gertrude Stein. Among English writers she felt closest to the nonsense and fantasy of Lewis Carroll, Edward Lear and Jonathan Swift. After publishing the first English translation of Alfred Jarry's Ubu Roi in 1951, which was illustrated by Franciszka, the Themersons were invited to become members of the College of Pataphysics. Throughout her life, Franciszka developed a pictorial language that, while ignoring expressionism, conveyed emotion with a lightness of touch and delicacy of line. In the paintings, lines are incised with knives, sticks or her fingers, while in the drawings, ink and pencil progress across the paper by the constant motion of hand and arm. The sense of immediacy in her work is an expression of her desire for a seamlessness between internal thinking and the external execution. As she says of her bi-abstract language... I did not think it out. I painted it out. And now I let it develop within its own laws.

Jump to times or comments

Performance times

L'Etrangere, London EC2A →

44a Charlotte Road, London, EC2A 3PD

SIMILAR EVENTS

Dawn Youll, 'Function Suite'

The starting point for this new body of work was a stack of chairs at the back of a building, a...

Danny Rolph, East Central

Rebecca Lidert, the director of CNB Gallery, and the London-based curator Sharon Newton are...

Emma Woffenden: Play-Fight

Perceptions of reality and exploration of dualities are driving forces behind Emma Woffenden's...

The Death Of The Artist

Exhibition of painted obituaries of artists

KYSON: Beneath the Veneer

Multi Award winning Architect Scott Kyson invites you to a unique exhibition of projects both past...

Visual art Art Painting

FIREWORKS

The best bonfires and fireworks displays taking place near you this year

HOT 100 2016

It's here! We announce our annual top 100 cultural contributors in Scotland. Check out who made the cut

